

Implementation Matters

Implementation is a key aspect of what schools do to improve, and yet it is a domain of school practice that rarely receives sufficient attention.

Too often the who, why, where, when, and how are overlooked, meaning implementation risks becoming an 'add on' task expected to be tackled on top of the day-to-day work.

What to do about it? Our modular programme will provide the tools to ensure that your next project is implemented effectively, giving you the best possible chance of meaningful outcomes.

Suitable for school leaders including head teachers and senior leaders.

The programme will include:

- Creating an evidence-informed school improvement cycle including development of logic models & research questions
- Planning the evaluation including sampling, allocation to group, outcome measures, reliability
- Critiquing and improving the plan, engaging stakeholders and developing a robust theory of change
- Data analysis and interpretation – how might outcomes inform a change in practice? What are the limitations of the findings?
